

Biography Of Douglas B Hoehn

Douglas B Hoehn, a retired professional, originates from Wyckoff, New Jersey. His remarkable career spanned over four decades, during which he made significant contributions to the field of education, authored influential texts, and passionately pursued hobbies that resonated with his compassionate nature.

Academic Excellence

His academic journey commenced at Dakota Wesleyan University, where he pursued his Bachelor's degree in 1970. This was just the beginning of a long and illustrious educational voyage. He excelled, earning a Master's in Speech Communication from the University of Maryland in 1972. His quest for knowledge did not end there; in 1979, he completed his Ph.D. in Speech Communication at New York University.

During his academic pursuits, he made his mark as a teaching graduate assistant at the University of Maryland and later as a teaching fellow at New York University. His dedication to education was evident even in his early years, as he served as the President of the student body at Dakota Wesleyan University and later as the Vice President of the graduate student association at New York University.

Distinguished Teaching Career

For over four decades, he dedicated his professional life to education. He served as a full professor of English at the Community College of Philadelphia for an astounding 41 years. His exceptional leadership skills marked his tenure at the college, as he chaired the Communications Department for 12 years, guiding the department to greater heights.

His influence extended beyond the boundaries of a single institution. As an adjunct instructor, he shared his expertise with other prestigious academic institutions, including Montclair State University, Kean State College, Passaic Community College, College of New Jersey, and Columbia University.

Authorship and Contributions

One of his most notable achievements in the academic realm is his authorship of "Understanding Communication," a text that has seen four editions and is widely used in over 100 colleges and universities. His commitment to enhancing the understanding of communication among students is evident through this enduring contribution to the field.

Snowboarding Enthusiast

Beyond the world of academia, Douglas is an ardent snowboarding enthusiast. He has honed his skills on the slopes and generously shared his expertise with thousands of students at major mountains in the northeast, catering to individuals of all ability levels. His status as the "Most recommended snowboard instructor" speaks volumes about his proficiency and commitment to this exhilarating sport.

Involvement in Charity

His compassion extends to the welfare of animals. As a voluntary Ramapo Bergen Animal Rescue Association member, he has dedicated his time and resources to rescuing animals in need, providing essential medical treatment, and fostering those requiring care. His commitment to the cause of animal welfare is a testament to his caring and philanthropic nature.

Personal Life and Interests

In his personal life, he finds solace in history, a passion that he has cultivated over the years. His involvement in organizations related to American history, such as the American History Organization, and his participation as a history conference speaker on topics like the French and Indian War and World War Two in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, highlight his dedication to preserving and disseminating historical knowledge.

Apart from history, his heart is warmed by his love for snowboarding, a hobby that aligns with his desire to help others. He especially enjoys adaptive snowboarding, which allows physically challenged individuals to experience the thrill of this sport.

Charitable Endeavors

His involvement with the Ramapo Bergen Animal Rescue Association is a testament to his philanthropic spirit. He has contributed financially and actively participated in rescuing, treating, and fostering animals in distress. His dedication to this noble cause embodies the values he holds dear.

Future Endeavors

As he continues to enjoy his retirement, he is embarking on a new endeavor—an ambitious book on the history of the English language. This forthcoming work promises to be a valuable addition to linguistics and history, further showcasing his unwavering commitment to knowledge dissemination.

Douglas B Hoehn's life is a harmonious blend of academic excellence, a deep passion for snowboarding, a compassionate commitment to animal welfare, and an insatiable thirst for historical knowledge. His contributions to education, authorship, and charity work stand as a testament to a life well-lived, characterized by dedication and kindness.
