Dr. Candice
SCHAEFER

PSYCHOLOGIST - THOUGHT LEADER - INTERNATIONAL SPEAKER - WRITER

BIO

Dr. Candice Schaefer is a board-certified licensed clinical psychologist, executive coach, consultant, and thought leader in the field of mental health at work. Dr. Schaefer spent 10 years as a practicing clinician in medical settings and private practice before moving to the tech industry in 2017, where she created and delivered resiliency programming for employees working with graphic and sensitive content at Facebook. At Twitter, Dr. Schaefer served as the director of global employee wellness, a subject matter expert, and a consultant to many organizations within Twitter, with the goal of increasing employee resilience and decreasing occupational burnout. In 2022, Candice joined Spring Health, a mental health technology company, to create an internal innovation lab researching the connections between mental health and high performance through workplace mental health interventions.

Now, Dr. Schaefer enjoys working with clients as a therapist and executive coach, as well as an independent consultant for organizations. She has served as a panelist and keynote speaker at many employee well-being conferences around the world for HR and corporate well-being professionals, and a speaker for employee groups on areas like imposter syndrome and burnout.

Dr. Schaefer is a regular source for media stories and podcasts on resiliency, burnout, and millennial work/life balance. She can be reached for media inquiries at candice@candiceschaefer.com Candice provided us with an extremely interesting and helpful talk on the topic of imposter syndrome. The talk was well balanced between helping us to understand what imposter syndrome is, why these thought patterns occur, and proactive steps we could take to overcome these feelings and combat our imposter syndrome! Candice is a very engaging speaker and held attendance and interest high throughout the whole session using popular culture references and asking questions to the audience. Every attendee left the talk with a whole host of tips to take forward and use throughout their career. I can't thank Candice enough for this talk!"
