Opening Statements:

Do you ever think about how to influence institutional change?

That whom ever the audience is must feel a sense of hope, that there is away out of a bleak situation. Not being too passive in the uproar of moments, but process the problem-solving we all have in us...

What is the point of this???

To open the minds of everyone taking part in "ELEVATE" and the Party's allowing me the space to interact with the cohorts. Despite any isolation, imaginations do flourish in the bleak environments.

The hurried and exaggerated cluster of policy's never really meet the mass needs in the grand view of overcoming or moving forward.

So, I have created "ELEVATE," to bring a woman's round table experience to all in search of them true selves. Continued is the repeat of harsh ways of living and thinking that does' rule most to come back and forth to Jails, Prisons, and Treatment Centers.

The question is, how can we get to the moments of "what use to happen does not"? Can we? Can you give opportunity for one person to find their identity and own it, to not be a drifter without immediate goals or obligations indifferent to consequences?

A female criminal in her lifetime will thief, prostitute herself in some form and marry more than once in her quest to avoid poverty.
