MATTHEW RENZ

SPEAKER | TRAINER

TRANSFORM YOUR WORLD

The BUTTERFLY EFFECT

Matthew Renz attended Southern Methodist University with the hopes of becoming a professional golfer. Matthew would build a formidable career as a multiple award-winning executive with UnitedHealthcare. With a background in corporate sales and leadership, Matthew has helped countless men and women achieve professional growth and leadership development for success within themselves. Matthew has a rich history of advising and learning with some of the top companies in the world, including MetLife, Northwestern Mutual, Sotheby's, and Coldwell Banker. Described as endlessly optimistic, Matthew is known for his high-energy, high-impact content (with a comedic touch) and humble delivery, and his connections with his audiences. Matthew is a certified speaker and trainer with the John Maxwell Team.

* * * * *

"The Butterfly Effect," says that one small act can influence a major event just as your thoughts, words, and actions influence others in ways you could never fathom. The butterfly effect is a complex idea explained in simple terms: everything, no matter how small or large, has the potential to influence actions that are seemingly unrelated. The butterfly effect is much like our individual influence, and this talk will help you understand the power of your influence. Everyone influences others. You will never understand how you influence someone, because you are not them.

Key Takeaways Include:

- Learn who you currently influence.
- Learn the difference between leadership and the position of leadership.
- Learn 10 ways influencers increase their influence
- Learn to develop influence with leaders.

Booking Info

Matthew@Matthew-Renz.com
www.Matthew-Renz.com
{561} 777-9879