

My name is Francisco Perez Musi, I began my professional life venturing into the world of technology, collaborating with multinational companies such as CIT Group and IBM Mexico. Always concerned about the social environment, I have a Master's degree in Social Responsibility from the Anáhuac University, where I in turn completed the negotiation course with Harvard University.

I am a speaker at AGB Consultores, a company that seeks to bring new leadership and talent development trends based on Diversity and Inclusion to organizations. At the same time and personally, I give testimonial and motivational talks to different audiences.

Additionally, I participated as founder of a successful branding and business solutions business. Likewise, I am co-founder of Espinoza & Musi, a company that encompasses the development and marketing of a product focused on the prevention and treatment of anemia for people of all ages.

I have a hereditary-degenerative disease that has gradually taken away my sight in both eyes for 8 years, however, I have managed to turn what seemed like an adversity into a life challenge, driving me to seek my continuous improvement by inspiring others.

Through the narration of my life experience, it has been possible for me to raise awareness and impact multiple audiences in a positive way, bringing various benefits. Among them, inclusion, empowerment, resilience, among others;; thus achieving positive results in the work performance and personal life of workers.
