INFANT FORMULA SHORTAGES

Food Bank For New York City powers an extensive member network of over 800 food pantries, soup kitchens, and campus partners across the five boroughs. We make it a point (and a priority) to regularly survey our network to make sure we're delivering what is needed most to their communities. We are aware of the urgent baby formula shortage, a tremendous crisis for many of the New Yorkers we serve. In FY2021, Food Bank provided over 236,000 pounds of baby formula and baby food to families in need. We are proud to be one of the few hunger relief organizations in the Feeding America network that provides baby formula in substantial amounts and are eager to distribute this essential item as soon as it becomes available. Found in the United Nations

For 3 years the U.S. government , Federal systems , Politics and Congress has been abolish indefinitely filed by U.K Parliament and signed and granted by Gov.General Kevin Lee so story's using (U.S. gov United States government , United States of America , Federal systems , Politics , Congress , Bipartisan Congress are all illegal on news , press channels and newswire etc , Lawsuit's will be filed , Press website and newswires will and can be seized immediately , Live and Daily news can and will receive dead air if facts are ignored .

The end of the Analytical war with politics and Holy war against mass rape with the execution of Osama Bin Laden , Quasimodo , Saddam Hussein , and Issis (Malcolm Leader name) and the signing of Sanctions to the end of the holy war with tactics of mass rape is William Alfred Martin and Barack Hussein Obama .

The end of the Analytical war recovery stage is now in effect the United States Government fraudulent activity to the American people led to over 600 million Americans receiving lost and stolen money withheld by the courts & police department and other Gov. Officials , investments were also returned to investigated proof of owners of funds , police conjunctions are the one team in the recovery stage of the war and missions . Will and estate fraud are another team and who's working on private businesses that galch payroll , never paid salary or proper salary or pay proper according to the contract agreed or matching there previous salary . So every day Americans also people across the world are getting money deposited in to bank accounts from old jobs who didn't let you take lunch or lawyer or accountant galch or pinch money from paychecks , your inheritance was not given to you properly or handed to you at the funeral . The American pride scheme let police and fraudulent probate lawyers for decades give for decades lied about Will & Estate , probate law . Some say you can present a letter as your dieing wish to claim a will or estate which is false if no Will of Estate is filed which has to be followed to the tea and only handed to the Executor on the willor jail time and forfeit your inheritance .If no Will of estate is filed by law in every state the business , funds , property must be given to the deceased biological children evenly . Children proven by hospital records no birth certificate allowed Birth certificate only prove citizenship in court .

Money from courts repaid from lawsuits where courts use to collect the money at the court house up into the 1980's . Since the first lawsuits 2000 years ago the same time earth and U.S. gov has been around and more ways in court fees and illegal charges at court , investment money held by court , people who hand the court lawsuits money to give to Plaintiff a former process by the court to collect the money if you loss a lawsuit you can pay the court and the court will hand it to the winning Party . Funds are being automatically return to rightful owner bank account with investigation done by professionals and explanation of the crime and money withheld .

Investments which were never given to correct owner are being Computer Forensiced for app fraud and non payment by professional Forensic Accountants .

Conjunctions and police process where you get the fund of stolen property or debt for crime arrested for at the time similar to a law suit on arrest Just ask the officers at the scene for a conjunction for the amount of theft or stolen item . The processes is to ask the police officers at the scene for a conjunction in the case by 3 weeks the money of debt must be paid or it goes in to garnishment . Over the decades the police on the United States Government have been collecting conjunctions at precinct or on the scene of the crime and never carryout proper process and give to complaints pinching or galching later used for other government funding .

Will and estate fraud by the United States Government is being Forensic and money is being sent automatically also . By law with no will and estate in all states funds are equally distributed to the biological children by medical records not Birth certificate which only prove citizenship in court . If the person has a will and estate the rules of the will must be followed by law only executors on estate can receive funds , property anything left for he or she . Executioners in will and estate are the people who hand the executioner the properties and documented proof of ownership off new assets . They read the will to recipients at funerals or after the date and time of reported death was reported also watch over to see if the estate has done wrong doing like fraud by family working in Businesses rotation of family who do work in the family business .

Federal Government being seized , raided and buildings closed indefinitely by the Royal Commission Government and Allied international force for rooms of cash used to fund the fraudulent Federal Government which never was registered and keeping high officials in the federal system with cash who knew about the rooms of cash withheld from the public confiscated on arrest home , evasions , hidden as a raid for drug money decriminalized never returned other money was citizens legal money illegally held from private bank who legally had different license than federal and the Fed system took their safe out their house in the days before computer and software described as paper bank before the 1960 and several other situations where the Federal system confiscated funds from people illegally with Federal laws that were never signed by God the proper process . To indite someone with the illegally Federal System with fraudulent laws .For decades men and women of America has been going to the Federal jail system exonerated after decade's . The lease of occupancy has expired decades ago found on Google images .

A cure for HIV would be the total eradication of the virus from the body. However, this is not the only option that scientists are looking into. Here are some of the strategies scientists are looking into for an HIV cure. Light Painting | JonathanCohen via Photopin Shock and kill technique HIV hides in reservoir cells in the body and can remain silent as long as a patient takes antiretroviral therapy. As soon as a patient stops taking ARTs, the reservoir virus wakes up and starts replicating all around the body again. Shock and Kill would 'wake up' these reservoirs to activate the silent virus. Whilst counter- intuitive, the idea is to wake up every single virus and kill all the activated cells, destroying the reservoir in one go. If one virus survives then there is always a risk that it will be able to duplicate and the virus will return. Currently, scientists have identified drugs that will 'shock' or 'wake up' the silent reservoir cells. The next challenge is to identify a drug or method that can subsequently destroy these infected cells and avoid healthy cells. When destroying cells in the body, there is always a risk that drugs will target healthy cells, so this research moves carefully to avoid unnecessary damage. References Pharmacological reactivation of virus as a cure strategy

– <https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC4031321/> Locks and Lockers | Eyad Elbayoumi via Photopin Lock and Block Technique The 'Lock and Block' technique takes the opposite approach to 'Shock and Kill'. This method aims to trap HIV in its reservoir cell so that it can never be reactivated. Whilst the virus is still Page 2 of 7 Page 3 of 7present in the body, it is trapped away so that it cannot escape its host cell and cannot replicated. This technique is being looked into as an alternative to 'Shock and Kill'. Scientists are currently testing drugs' abilities to effectively trap HIV in a host cell without disrupting the genetic material of uninfected cells. Ideally, a drug would lock HIV away then deplete the reservoir so there was no possibility of the virus returning. Current issues that are being researched are drugs not locking away HIV tightly enough. References <http://programme.ias2017.org/PAGMaterial/eposters/5814.pdf> ...new strategy ('block and lock'), designed to silence the HIV reservoir, rather than eradicate it. The goal of this strategy would be to increase treatment intervals and maybe even obtain a state of 'HIV remission'. <https://bmcmedicine.biomedcentral.com/articles/10.1186/s12916-015-0517-y> Due to the non-inducible property of the 'deep' viral reservoir, the 'permanent silencing' approach could be considered as a suitable cure strategy. Unlike 'shock and kill' strategies, this approach focuses on silencing or locking the HIV-1 proviruses in cells. Radiate | sax via Photopin Stem Cell Transplants Only one man has ever been 'cured' of HIV. Timothy Ray Brown, otherwise known as the 'Berlin patient', was cured of HIV after receiving a stem cell transplant for another condition. Due to a rare genetic mutation in the donated stem cells, Brown's immune system could fight off the HIV in his body. Over a decade later, he is still HIV-free and actively campaigning for HIV research and speaking about his experience. A stem cell transplant involves destroying the body's immune system, then introducing new stem cells that rebuild. This is commonly used to treat leukemia, a cancer of the blood and bone marrow that attacks the body. Brown had a stem cell donation from a specific donor who had a rare gene mutation. Most people have the gene called CCR5 in their DNA. This produces a receptor on human cells that HIV can 'latch onto' and thus infiltrate the cell barrier. However, this donor had the mutation called CCR5 – delta32 which produces a receptor that HIV is unable to interact with. The virus can no longer invade human cells and the human host is resistant to HIV. When Brown received the stem cells with this CCR5 – delta32 mutation, his body DNA adapted and he became resistant to HIV. However, the details behind why Brown was cured of HIV are complex and difficult to repeat. Even repeating the procedure in other patients, their HIV has come back after a period in remission. There are still elements that scientists don't understand enough to reproduce the results in other HIV-positive patients. Additionally, stem cell transplants are dangerous, expensive and require very specific donors otherwise the body can reject the new cells. Stem cell transplantation probably won't become a mainstream avenue for an HIV cure. Personal Photography Cropped | Iron-Photographer Amarand Agasi via PhotoPin AntiRetroviral Therapy as a Cure Page 3 of 7

Page 4 of 7 It has been shown that treating the virus within the first 48 hours of exposure can significantly reduce the size of the HIV reservoir hidden in the body. This method is suitable for certain people (e.g. new born babies of HIV-positive mothers), but will not work for everyone. In infants born to HIV-positive mothers, those who started ARTs within 6 to 12 months of birth had reduced mortality rates and a smaller HIV reservoir. However, many people do not get access to HIV treatment early enough and many people do not realise they have HIV until months after they are first exposed. This is another reason why it is important to go for an HIV test regularly so that you always know your status and can act quickly if you do become infected. Overall, researchers feel that ARTs alone will not make a cure strategy. Instead, ARTs might make up part of a cure package.

References <https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC4031321/> ...it is apparent that early ART is instrumental in minimizing the pool of latently infected cells and most likely will be exploited further as a means to a functional cure <https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pubmed/19020325> Early HIV diagnosis and early antiretroviral therapy reduced early infant mortality by 76% and HIV progression by 75%. . <http://betablog.org/early-antiretroviral-therapy-progress-in-hiv-cure-research/> The complexity of HIV infection—which establishes difficult-to-eliminate viral reservoirs very early—means that prompt ART alone may not be sufficient as an HIV cure strategy. Red Light | Travis Goodspeed via Flickr A Vaccine Whilst technically prevention and not a cure, a vaccination would be a powerful tool in beating HIV. Many HIV vaccines have been trialed and only one has had significant results. It is called the RV144 trial which started in 2003, in Thailand. A cohort received a trial vaccine and were tested for HIV three years later. From the volunteers, the rate of HIV was 31% lower in the cohort who received the vaccine compared to those who received the placebo. This study gave scientists hope that there could be a possibility for a vaccine. However, the strain of HIV found in Thailand is different to the strain found in sub-Saharan Africa, so the vaccine prototype needs to be adjusted the strains of the virus that are most common in South Africa. There are projects to create a vaccination however, it is complicated to create a lasting vaccination. Researchers at the Desmond Tutu HIV Foundation, an HIV vaccine trial, HVTN 702. This trial, which began in 2016, is predicted to run for five years. HIV-negative, South African adults receive a series of injections at five different time points that rally the body's defenses against HIV. If successful, this could be the biggest step towards a vaccine and we are closer than we have ever been. Some trial work has been done to create infusions that give participants protection, but the protection only lasts for a month or so before another dose is needed. Many diseases in the past have been close-to-eradicated, if not fully eradicated, thanks to vaccinations: polio, mumps, smallpox, tetanus and measles to name a few. References <http://www.nejm.org/doi/pdf/10.1056/NEJMoa0908492> Page 4 of 7

Page 5 of 7 In the intention-to-treat analysis involving 16,402 subjects, there was a trend toward the prevention of HIV-1 infection among the vaccine recipients, with a vaccine efficacy of 26.4% ... In the perprotocol analysis involving 12,542 subjects, the vaccine efficacy was 26.2% ... In the modified intention-to-treat analysis involving 16,395 subjects (with the exclusion of 7 subjects who were found to have had HIV-1 infection at baseline), the vaccine efficacy was 31.2% <https://www.unicef.org/pon96/hevaccin.htm> In all, vaccines have brought seven major human diseases under some degree of control – smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, yellow fever, whooping cough, polio, and measles. Still Searching for a Cure Research is still ongoing to find a way to beat HIV. Until there is a cure, HIV-infected people should access ARTs as soon as possible and stick to their daily dose. Written by Caroline Reid Alternative Treatments for HIV and AIDS Medically reviewed by Daniel Murrell, M.D. — Written by The Healthline Editorial Team — Updated on April 24, 2020 Treating symptoms Supplement safety Takeaway Alternative treatments for HIV Many people with HIV or AIDS use complementary and alternative medicine (CAM) in combination with traditional medical treatments to improve their health and well-being. There is some evidence that CAM treatments can relieve some symptoms of HIV infection or AIDS. However, there is no evidence that these treatments can treat or cure these conditions. And there's also little information regarding the side effects of these treatments. And just because a treatment is natural does not mean it's safe. Some of these treatments can interact with certain medications. People with HIV or AIDS should tell their healthcare provider if they're interested in using CAM to help manage their symptoms. Read on to learn about which options may be safe and which ones to avoid. Alternative therapy for HIV symptoms There is relatively little research on the use of CAM treatments for relieving symptoms of HIV or AIDS. However, some common CAM treatments have been shown to improve the symptoms of other illnesses. In some cases, these treatments might be worth a try for someone with HIV infection or

AIDS. Body therapies Yoga and massage therapy may help reduce pain for some people. Research Trusted Source has shown that yoga can also improve feelings of overall health and reduce anxiety and depression. It has even been shown to improve levels of CD4 cells, which are immune cells that are attacked by HIV. Page 5 of 7

Page 6 of 7 Acupuncture may help with nausea and other treatment side effects. Acupuncture is an ancient Chinese medical practice that involves placing thin, solid needles into various pressure points on the body. This can release chemicals in the body that can help relieve pain. Relaxation therapies Meditation and other forms of relaxation treatment can help reduce anxiety. They may improve the ability to cope with the stress of a chronic illness such as HIV. Herbal medicine Herbal medications should be used with caution. There isn't enough evidence to support the use of these drugs for relieving HIV symptoms. However, a brief course of certain herbs may support immunity in people with HIV. Research has shown that milk thistle is one example. Milk thistle is a common herb used in people to improve liver function and does not interact significantly with antivirals. Keep in mind though that other herbs may interact with conventional HIV treatments. People with HIV should tell their healthcare provider before using any herbal treatments. This allows their provider to monitor for any drug interactions or side effects. Medical marijuana Loss of appetite is common in people with HIV. And some antiviral medications can upset the stomach and make it harder to keep up with scheduled medication doses. Marijuana can help reduce pain, control nausea, and increase appetite. However, medical marijuana is legal only in certain states. In addition, smoking marijuana is associated with many of the same health risks as the smoking of any substance. A healthcare provider can provide more information. There's little evidence to suggest that medical marijuana will interact with modern HIV management medications. Still, people with HIV should consult their healthcare provider before using marijuana to treat their symptoms. The provider will monitor for possible drug interactions or respiratory complications.

Interactions between supplements and HIV treatment Supplements should be used with caution by people living with HIV or AIDS. Some supplements may be safe to use, while others could cause problems. People with HIV or AIDS should talk to their healthcare provider about what vitamins and minerals they should take to improve their health. Supplements to avoid Certain supplements are known to cause problems with the effectiveness of HIV treatment.

Four of these are garlic, St. John's wort, echinacea, and ginseng. Garlic supplements can make certain HIV treatments much less effective. If garlic is taken with certain medications, it could result in too much or too little of the drug in the blood. This problem outweighs any possible benefits of these supplements on the immune system. That said, eating fresh garlic is not known to cause problems. St. John's wort is a popular supplement used to treat depression. However, it can make HIV treatment less effective. People with HIV should not use this supplement.

Page 6 of 7

Page 7 of 7 Echinacea and ginseng are purported to boost immune function. However, both can interact with certain HIV medications. It may be okay to use these supplements depending on the HIV therapy. A healthcare provider should be consulted. Supplements that may be helpful Supplements that may be useful in people with HIV include: calcium and vitamin D to improve bone health fish oil to reduce cholesterol selenium to slow the progression of HIV vitamin B-12 to improve the health of pregnant women and their pregnancies whey or soy protein to help with weight gain The takeaway HIV and AIDS can cause various symptoms, and some alternative treatments could help provide relief. But when considering alternative treatment options, people with these conditions should always talk to their healthcare provider first. A healthcare provider can help prevent any potential drug interactions and perhaps suggest other options that could help reduce symptoms. For people living with HIV or AIDS, working with a healthcare provider is the best way to explore options to help improve their health and well-being. Page 7 of 7

Special thanks to Commander and Autokrator over "HarlemHellfighters"

: "Tariq Sumpter" and Squadrons for the most on call and signed on mission with over 6 at $100,000 ending of mission bonus .

The Hellfighters originated as the 15th New York (Colored) Infantry Regiment, a National Guard unit. Members of the African American community in New York City's Harlem district had long advocated for the creation of a homegrown military unit, but white politicians blocked several attempts at establishing such a body. The Harlem Hellfighters were an African-American infantry unit in WWI who spent more time in combat than any other American unit. Despite their courage, sacrifice and dedication to their country, they returned home to face racism and segregation from their fellow countrymen.

William Hayward. Indeed, their reputation preceded them, and it was the Germans who first dubbed them the "Hellfighters." Some 1,300 of those Hellfighters were casualties of war, according to Peter Nelson in the book "A More Unbending Battle: The Harlem Hellfighter's Struggle for Freedom in WWI and Equality at Home."

Northern Kosovo – Avoid non-essential travel Avoid non-essential travel to the northern part of Kosovo due to ethnic tensions and the risk of violence and civil unrest, particularly in the municipalities of: Leposavić North Mitrovica. Zubin Potok. Kosovo[a] within communist Yugoslavia had the lowest rate of crime in the whole country.[1] Following the Kosovo War (1999), the region had become a significant center of organized crime, drug trafficking, human trafficking and organ theft. There is also an ongoing ethnic conflict between Kosovar Albanians and Kosovan Serbs. The large Kosovar diaspora which had built up in Western Europe during the 1990s, combined with the political instability, created ideal conditions for Kosovo to become “Europe’s crime hub”; well into the 2000s, Kosovo remained associated with both ethnic conflict and organized crime.[2] A Kosovo Police service has been built up under UN administration, beginning in 1999. It had an operational force of 7,000 officers in 2004, and further expanded to 9,000 by 2010. The deplorable crime rate led to an additional deployment of civilian law enforcement resources of the European Union to Kosovo, under the name of European Union Rule of Law Mission in Kosovo in 2008. Originally scheduled for two years, the duration of the deployment was extended twice, as of September 2012 scheduled to last until 2014 History War crimes Kosovo: the
