Trust Your Animal Instincts is a potentially life-changing, life-enhancing, life-celebrating instructional guide and manual. If you're struggling to stay positive in these times of Covid, economic distress, and social unrest, you're not alone. Especially and unreservedly recommended...

--Midwest Book Review

Tabitha's book received the Nautilus Award in 2021. She joins former winners Deepak Chopra, Desmond Tutu, Lynne McTaggart, Eckhart Tolle, and His Holiness the Dalai Lama as a distinguished literary contributor that incites spiritual growth, conscious living, and positive social change.

We invited Tabitha to speak to our global team members for our #BetterTogether Everywhere initiative which brings into focus our new way of work and how to navigate the various challenges we face. She discussed burnout, listening to our inner hum, and understanding that we need to have a purpose. Designing a culture with purpose and defining how that drives our actions and reactions to situations and how we can be reconnected in a hyper-distributed world. Great presentation--the information provided was very helpful and impactful to our teams.

--Leigh Dennison, TIBCO Employee Experience

Over the years, I've attended many events on subjects ranging from personal growth to organizational efficiency. During these events, I remember a few capable speakers presenting themselves as real subject matter experts, but far fewer were able to captivate the audiences with meaningful engagement and topic fluidity. During her talks on both "Strategic Diversity" and "Smart-Tech Solutions," Tabitha Scott not only showed a command of topic(s), but she also provided the inspiration and a few laughs along the way. Charismatic, engaging and topically incisive... Tabitha will not disappoint!

--Shiro Onedera, CEO Seraphim Analytics

Tabitha led a stress management & leadership development keynote for the global leadership team. Due to the pandemic, the session was virtual, but it was seamless - Tabitha is so personable, professional, and engaged that it felt like she was in the room. Tabitha took a LOT of time to prepare and incorporate our company mission, vision and values - she even weaved one of our leaders into her session. She was such a pleasure to work with, and truly felt like a part of our team!

We got a lot of great feedback after her session. I highly recommend Tabitha to any organization looking for a different way of thinking, leading, changing and growing!

--Nina Marrato, White Castle Sr. Director Organizational Development
