

To whom it may concern,

Re: Testimonial for The Genwell Project

I had the pleasure of collaborating with Pete Bombaci when he was a keynote speaker at our Thrive Symposium in March 2023. Pete's message is a simple but powerful one: wellness and human connections are intrinsically linked. We wanted Pete to speak on this topic at our symposium conference which was centred around how to make our community a better place and empowering residents to create positive change. The Genwell message tied in so well with the thesis of the symposium, we even saved this keynote till the end of the day to leave everyone on an inspired high note.

Additionally, we utilized Pete's keynote to launch our Neighbourhood Small Grants program to empower residents to make Prince Edward County a better place by gathering and connecting around a shared purpose, whether this takes the form of a block party, alleyway cleanup or sharing of skills or knowledge. The Genwell presentation as a kickoff to that announcement was so synergistic and has led to much community interest as this message was shared directly with almost 200 community members.

Personally, I believe that the message of the Genwell project would benefit any community foundation as the impact of human connectivity is how we can continue to create positive change in our communities. I would happily work with Pete Bombaci and the Genwell project again.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Dominique Jones".

Dominique Jones

Executive Director

The County Foundation