About Vidya

Vidya Raman has over 20 years of experience in Financial Services in both executive and leadership roles. Her teams in technology and business functions were recognized for delivering quality outcomes. She attributes much of her teams' successes to her people-centric leadership style that raised performance and productivity in complex and ambiguous settings.

She is an advocate for the high-potential invisible corporate employee and a guide for leaders who want to raise their team's engagement and performance.

Vidya's mission is to inspire and move individuals to action through motivational and energizing talks. Her passion for speaking and uplifting audiences was recognized by Toastmasters International with a prestigious speech contest win in a district where 113 clubs competed. She is a lifelong learner and speaker, trainer, and coach certified by the John Maxwell Team. With the insights acquired from her rich experiences and those of others, she helps individuals feel empowered with strategies to envision new possibilities, find focus, and break free of limitations. She uses her unique style and content to help her clients scale new heights.
