TRAINER

Walt McKinley is an Inspirational Speaker, Trainer, and #1 bestselling Author who delivers memorable keynote presentations and training focused on creating high performing team first cultures, using skills he's honed in both the United States military and corporate America.

Walt is a retired Naval Intelligence Officer and former Fortune 300 Corporate Executive who's led high performing global teams for over 25 years. He curated a heart centered, uplifting, and empowering leadership style that built top-performing organizations who achieved record breaking results around the world.

Walt uses his extraordinarily diverse "boots and boardroom" experience to train leaders on the specific approaches necessary to create cultures where teams thrive. His training and keynote presentations are focused on increasing employee engagement, boosting morale, and cultivating high performance through people vs process.

Now more than ever, there is a demand for strong voices who can teach leaders to unlock potential in themselves, and their teams, using real life experience and tangible approaches while navigating some of the toughest work challenges in recent history.
