ABOUT REBECCA

Rebecca Walsh is a former Army officer, former elite cross-country ski racer and biathlete, the founder of Hike Like A Woman, and the owner of Lone Moose Ski Shop in Laramie, Wyoming.

She's a guide, outdoor educator, professional nordic ski instructor, small business owner, and breast cancer survivor.

On December 7th, 2021 Rebecca was diagnosed with breast cancer and has undergone surgery, chemotherapy, radiation and is currently in the last phase of treatment, endocrine therapy, and recovering from cancer treatment.

Rebecca's true passion is helping break down barriers to entry into the outdoors and helping women explore with confidence. She's also obsessed with helping women Veterans like herself seek solace in nature and spreading breast cancer awareness and supporting her fellow breast cancer patients and survivors.

Rebecca is also a small business owner and entrepreneur and believes that women can thrive in traditionally male-dominated professions.

She spreads her message of grit and optimism by speaking at events and retreats both in-person and online, leading workshops and guided trips.

If you're looking for a dynamic and inspiring speaker for your next event contact her at team@hikelikeawoman@gmail.com
